

SETTING: Two kids, Jane and Robert, sit on a park bench eating ice cream. Robert is eating chocolate ice cream and Jane is eating strawberry ice cream.

ROBERT

Jane, chocolate fudge ice cream really is the best, you should try it.

JANE

No way, Robert. Strawberry swirl will always be the best ice cream and there's nothing you can say to convince me otherwise.

ROBERT

I guess we'll have to agree to disagree. Thanks again for buying me some ice cream.

JANE

No problem, Robert. Thanks for helping me with my chores last Saturday!

Suddenly, a cat comes and licks ROBERT'S ice cream

ROBERT

EWWWWWW! GROSS!

JANE

Where did that cat come from?

ROBERT

I DON'T KNOW! But now I have to throw away my ice cream.

JANE:

What? What could possibly make you want to throw away free ice cream that I bought for you?

ROBERT

Because a cat just licked it. Cats give themselves BATHS with their tongues. I don't want to eat DIRTY CAT TONGUE GERMS!

JANE grabs the ice cream from ROBERT and takes a big lick to prove the ice cream is safe.

JANE

Wow... Robert... You were right.

ROBERT

You're going to die of cat germs?

JANE

No! Chocolate fudge IS the best!

ROBERT

(laughing) Oh, well if it takes a cat licking my ice cream to prove I'm right, I guess it's worth it!

They both laugh together. END SCENE
